TAOS COUNTY AND THE MORENO VALLEY

Sears

A Small Store with a Big Heart

By Sandy Penny

When Lisa Pifer took over the Sears store in Taos in July 2007, it became her fourth Sears store. In the last seven years, she has developed three more locations in Cortez, Gallup, and Durango. In her 25 years in business, her mission has never varied. She has always tried to find out what the community needs and provide it in the best of her ability. She says, "Sears is committed to a business model that closely matches mine. They provide excellent quality products, lots of choices, and great prices guaranteed. I wouldn't want to work with a company that offered any less." Pifer also mentioned that Sears has a policy of matching prices. If a customer buys an item at Sears and then brings in a price from another local store, they will not only match the price, but give you an additional 10 percent off.

In Taos, Sears has a local team of employees who are all dedicated to customer service as the corporate model demands. Manager Leslie Loretta Estep has been serving Sears customers with a smile for over six years, four in Espanola and two in Taos. She loves working with people, products and her customers, and she does a great job bringing them together. Manager Loretta Estep is new to Sears but has ten years of retail experience under her belt. Leslie Martinez has worked for the Taos Sears team for almost 15 years and can remember the store opened 15 years ago. lot of construction contractors, and offers an excellent range of water- and energy-efficient appliances, including washers and dryers, stoves and refrigerators.

"The people in Taos are very environmentally conscious, so we try to offer options that meet their specifications."

Another customer said he has been shopping at various Sears locations since the 1960s.

In other departments, you can find a great selection of electronics, computers, furniture, children's musical instruments, bedding, firearms, luggage, bicycles, baby carriages and glassware.

of a new snow blower, and that's understandable with the amount of snow we've had this year. One customer was able to get his order to arrive just in time for spring. Pierce noted that each store is different, and they stock them according to local needs and wants.

Most likely you remember the Sears and Roebuck catalog of their goods, but there's a new wrinkle for this modern age. Anything Sears can be ordered online and shipped to your local store for pickup - free of charge. In a remote town like Taos, this can save you a lot of time and money. This was just launched last November, and it has been a huge success.

If just being a good store is not enough, Sears is also committed to being a good neighbor back to the community.

It participates in food drives, contributes to homeless shelters, and makes apparel, linens and other items for home renovations for the needy. The Taos store also donates door prizes to civic groups, schools and churches, and it is particularly popular with kids, sports and education. Shopping at a community-focused store is just good sense.
